DEATH TOLL OF GREAT IN EVERY LIFE OF ENDEAVOR HEAVY DURING PAST YEAR

New York, Dec. 30.—The list of the noted men and women who were removed by the hand of death during the year just closing, containing the names of many distinguished makers of history, at home and abroad, of many leaders, statesmen, diplomats and prominent members of the various professions, mer of the church, scientists, educators, artists and others too numerous to mention.

Among the prominent Americans claimed by death during the year were many closely identified with public life. John Marshall Harlan, Associate Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court; Stephen B. Elkins, U. S. Senator from West Virginia and formerly Secretary of State under President Harrison; and Wm. P. Frye for thirty years U. S. Senator from Maine, were probably the three most widely known. The list includes the following U. S. Senators and ex-senators: Charles J. Hughes, of Colorado; Albert Baird Kittredge, of South Dakota; George Wyckoff McBride, of Oregon; Roger Q. Mills, of Texas, author of the Mills tariff bill; Thos. H. Carter, twice U. S. Senator and founder of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America. Others were Hiram A. Tuttle and John McLane, both former governors of New Hampshire; George Washington Gilek, former Governor of Kansas; Frank W. Benson, secretary of State and former governor of Oregon; Abiram Chamberlain, ex-governor of Connecticut; Fletcher Dutton Proctor, former governor of Vermont; Congressmen and ex-Congressmen Nehemiah D. Sperry, "Father of the Rural Free Delivery" system; Sydney E. Mudd, of Maryland; Edmond H. Madison, of Kansas; Henry Clay Loomis, of New Jersey; James P. Latta, of Nebraska; Gen. George W. Gordon, of Tennessee, Commander-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans and James Proctor Knott, ex-Congressman and former Governor of Kentucky.

Among the noted Canadians who died during the year just closing were Sir Charles A. P. Pelletier, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec; Desire Giguere, senior judge of the Supreme Court of Canada; Sir John Carling, a former member of the Canadian cabinet; Louis J. Forget, member of the Senate; George Johnson, former chief statistician of Canada; Archbishop Denis O'Connor and Archbishop Fergus Patrick McEvoy, of Toronto; Rev. William Patrick, principal Manitoba Presbyterian College; and Dr. B. H. professor of surgery, McGill University, and Israel M. Ross, a prominent railroad builder of western Canada.

Among the noted foreigners called by death during the past year were many statesmen and men of affairs known throughout the world, including Peter A. Stolypin, Premier of Russia; Baron Northcote, formerly Governor-General of Australia; Sir Charles Dilke, a prominent leader of the Liberal party in England; Buenaventura Corrozo, ex-President of Panama; Baron Ranffy, former Hungarian Premier; Maurice Rouvier, twice Premier of France; Martinez Campos, president of the Supreme Court of Spain; Henry Maurice Berthou, French Minister of War; Gen. Brun, former French Minister of War; Prof. Maschika Shimose, inventor of the high explosive used by the Japanese Navy and Marquis Iwano Komura, former Minister of Foreign Affairs of Japan. The list also includes Princess Clotilde, aunt of the present King of Italy; Maria Pia, formerly Queen Dowager of Portugal and Louise, Dowager Duchess of Devonshire.

The list of noted churchmen removed by death during the year includes Archbishop Patrick J. Ryan of Philadelphia; Bishop Augustine Van de Vyver, of Richmond; and Bishop Thomas Bonanum of Lincoln, all of the R. C. Church; Bishops William M. Mallon and Oscar Penn Fitzgerald of the W. E. Church and the following P. E. bishops: Mm. Paret, of Maryland; Alex. H. Vinton, of West Mass.; Edward Willis Kendrick, of Arizona and New Mexico.

Literature deplores the loss of David Graham Phillips, Mrs. Eliza beth Stuart Phelps Ward, George Cary Ezlestone, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Vaughan Kester, Antonio Fogazzaro, Mrs. Katherine Cecil Thurston, William Clark Russell, Mrs. Arthur Stannard, John Strange Winter and Harry Kelloze Doriaud.

The stage was impoverished by the death of Denham Thompson, Sydney Brough, Rose Eytine, Wright Lorimer, Edward Harrigan and Harold Kyrie Fellow.

Other noted dead of the year are Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Insurance Society and Secretary of the Navy under President Roosevelt; Tom L. Johnson, four times mayor of Cleveland; Edwin A. Abbey, the noted American scientist; John W. Gates, American financier; Sir William S. Gilbert, the librettist of "Pinafore" and "Mikado"; Mrs. Carrie Nation, the militant temperance advocate; Sir Robert Hart, the eminent authority on Chinese commercial affairs; Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, U. S. N., ret., the hero of Santiago; John R. Walsh, formerly a prominent Chicago banker; Ida Lewis Wilson, the famous keeper of the Lime Rock Lighthouse, Newport, R. I.; Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Eugene F. Ware, former Commissioner of Pensions and writer of poetry under the name of "Ironquill"; Gen. Clement A. Evans, former Commander-in-Chief United Confederate Veterans; Col. John James McCook, noted soldier of the Civil War and famous New York corporation lawyer; Cornelius N. Bliss, Secretary of the Interior under McKinley and many years treasurer of the Republican National Committee; John Bigelow, diplomat and author; Sir John Aird, the builder of the Assuan Dam; Rear Admiral Charles Stillman Sperry, U. S. N., ret.; Col. Wm. C. Green, copper mine operator; Gen. Ferdinand C. Latrobe, seven times Mayor of Baltimore; Sir Francis Galton, the noted English explorer and author; Gen. Piet A. Cronje, noted Boer leader in the war with England; Rear Admiral Silas W. Terry, U. S. N., ret.; Baron Albert von Rothschild, the Vienna banker; Sir Casper Purdon Clarke, former director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; Charles Frederic Moberly Bell, managing director of the London Times; Edward A. Mosley, Secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission and an authority on railroad safety; John Patterson, the English philanthropist and peace advocate; Halsey Cooley Ives, director of the St. Louis Museum of Art; Gustav Mahler, the eminent composer and conductor; Felix Mottl, director of the Royal Opera at Munich; Rear Admiral John C. Fremont, U. S. N., the noted philologist; Herbert G. Squires, former U. S. Minister to Panama and Cuba; Rear Admiral James H. Sands, U. S. N., ret.; H. Victor Newcomb, former president of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad; Thomas Bell, the sculptor; Sir Joseph Dalton Hooker, the noted English surgeon and naturalist; Bartlett Tripp, Ambassador to Austria under Cleveland; Irving Pedell Dudley, American Ambassador to Brazil; Charles S. Francis, former American Ambassador to Austria and Baron Gustave Samuel James de Rothschild, of the Paris branch of the house of Rothschild.

Effect of Weather.
The effect of the weather upon crystallization is certain. When it is dry the crystals are large and well defined; when it rains or there is a damp wind the salt crystallizes in fine grains; or again, rain will stop the crystallization entirely or retard it for many days. Even after crystallization has taken place in lumps as large as hazelnuts a damp wind or a rain will reduce the whole mass to a fine granular state.

NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—New Year's Day in the national capital will be made brilliant as usual with the President's reception at the White House, the customary breakfast given by the Secretary of State for the foreign diplomats, and the exchange of visits by all persons prominent in official life.

Congress will reconvene Wednesday. The big business of the immediate future promises to be tariff, as far as the house of representatives is concerned. Messages are expected from the President at an early date dealing with Alaska, the cotton schedule and the report of the tariff board on that subject, the postal commission's report and probably one on financial and monetary reforms.

The senate interstate commerce committee, which is investigating trust problems, will resume its hearings Friday, but the Lorimer investigating committee, the Stanley committee that is investigating the steel trust and several other committees of similar nature will not resume their activities until the following week.

During the week the State legislatures of Kentucky, Maryland, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Mississippi and one or two other States will convene for their regular sessions. Special interest attaches to the meeting of the New York legislature, as the annual message of Governor Dix is expected to deal with matters of unusual importance.

Other events of the week of more or less public interest will include the local option elections in Ontario, the general elections in Prince Edward Island, the annual New Year's Day rose tournament at Pasadena, Cal., the opening of the annual exhibition of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers in New York city, and the resumption of the Federal grand jury investigation at Indianapolis into the alleged McNamara dynamiting conspiracy.

ASKS FOR DIVORCE AFTER 43 YEARS

Special to Daily News.
Topeka, Kas., Dec. 20.—After brooding the trials and tribulations incident to married life for 43 years, Berley B. Henery, who is closely approaching the three score and ten milestone of life, has tired of the marital bonds and has sued for a divorce from Annie M. Henery, his wife for nearly half a century, who is nearly 70 years old. Few more "old" divorce cases have been filed in the Shawnee county courts than this one, where an aged couple, who have raised a family of children who are now grown and making their own way, enter the divorce court for the purpose of parting their ways in the declining days of their lives. The husband, who is a veteran of the Civil war, was until recently the proprietor of a grocery store at 723 West street. In his suit for divorce he charges his aged wife with extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty.

Mrs. Henery was reared a Quaker and has refused to engage an attorney to represent her in the case. When urged to do so she declared that the Lord will take care of her in the trouble and that she will come out of it all right. Neither will she attempt to fight for a share of the small amount of property which they have accumulated during the nearly half century they have been married.

Eve the Model Mother.

Chicago Tribune.
In spite of the fact that Adam and Eve raised Cain, they were cited as model parents for the mothers and fathers of Oak Park in a sermon by Prof. William C. Hermann of the Lutheran Institute at the Evangelical Lutheran church. His topic was "Adam and Eve, Model Parents." "If modern parents were as Good Christians as Adam and Eve, the children of today would be better," said the speaker. "Our first parents reared their children for the world to come. The tendency of parents today is to train their children for this world alone."

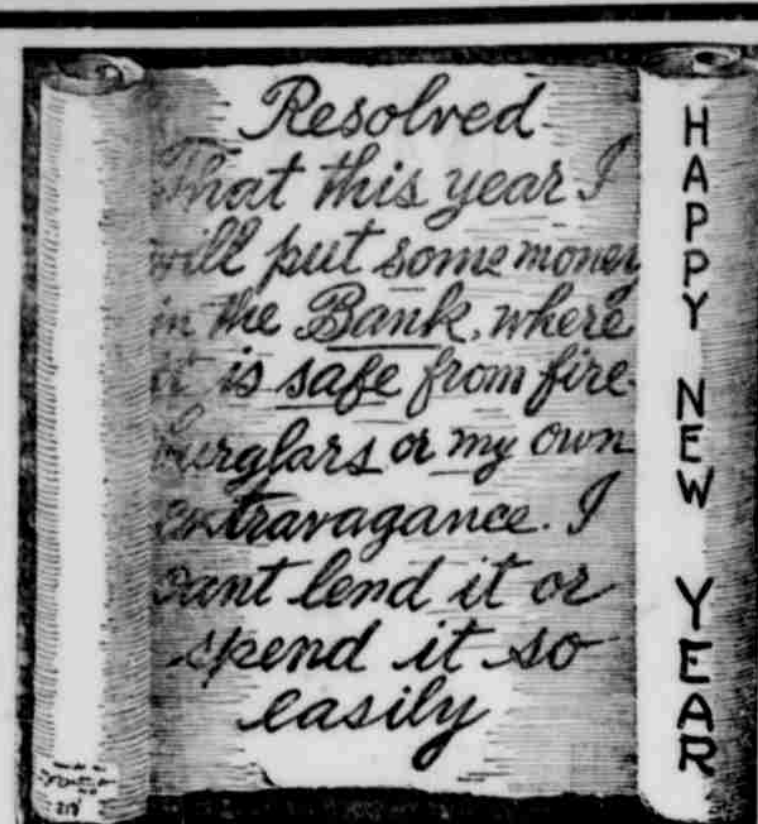

Adam and Eve lived a quiet and retired life after their expulsion from the Garden of Eden, and devoted their time to teaching their children Christianity. Eve was so imbued with the spirit of Christianity that when her first child was born she considered him to be a savior that had been promised to the world, and therefore named him Cain, meaning "a gift of God."

"But, inspired of their Christian teaching, Adam and Eve failed to keep both of their sons on the right path. Cain did not gain favor in the sight of God because he became a hypocrite: his worship was not genuine."

Mixing Paint.
Is there anything more interesting in life than mixing paint, putting in black to darken it, yellow to lighten it, vermilion to make it bright, and green to see what happens?—Atlantic.
